TOWER ASSAULT

Prepare yourself for a unique combination of action and strategy. Prepare to battle for your life in over 50 atmospheric levels. Prepare yourself for... Tower Assault!

Masquerading as the final chapter of the Alien Breed 2D series, Tower Assault is actually a whole new game. more action than ever before, more levels, more atmosphere, new play styles, new missions, new objectives... even dark levels!

Tower Assault takes place on a distant Federation Military Research Unit on the planet Azarin 2E. After hearing a distraught SOS message, the Dreadnought Herona dispatches ten dropships to assist. Only one ship makes it through the base's defence systems, to crash-land near the massive towers.

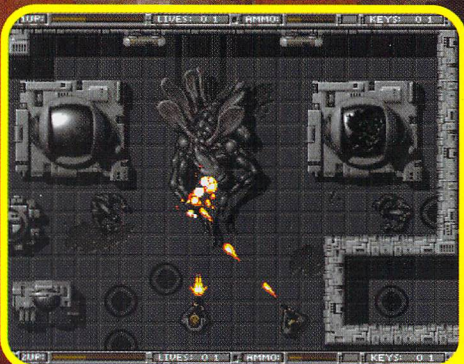

The action begins... you (and a friend in simultaneous two player mode) have to battle through hordes of hostile aliens, disarm the defence systems, destroy the base, and make your escape.

Around the base you will find ammo, weapons, information consoles, decklift passes, food and first aid to help you complete your mission. But you will also find aliens, radioactive zones, blocked passages, locked doors, failed lighting systems and dead bodies... this ain't no picnic!

New features include a 'retreat mode' which allows you to fire behind you whilst backing off - especially effective in two player mode. Also in two-player your shots can, optionally, be dangerous to your fellow player, so fire with with caution. Multiple exit points on each level mean that the predictable level sequence of the previous games is a thing of the past. Now you can progress through the complex via any one of a multitude of routes, some are hard... and some are very hard.

SUPER STARDUST

See your Amiga 1200 (or CD32) do things you never thought it could...

...play Super Stardust

Super Stardust is the finest shoot em up the Amiga has ever seen. We're not just blowing our own trumpet, see the reviews in the Amiga press... this game really is something special.

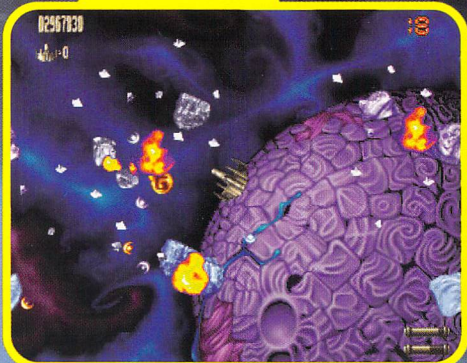

Which is not surprising when you consider that it combines the classic (and time tested) gameplay style of Asteroids with the incredible programming talent of Finland's Bloodhouse coding team. The result is a spectacular explosion of colour, speed, action and excitement. The result is the finest shoot em up, on any home computer ever.

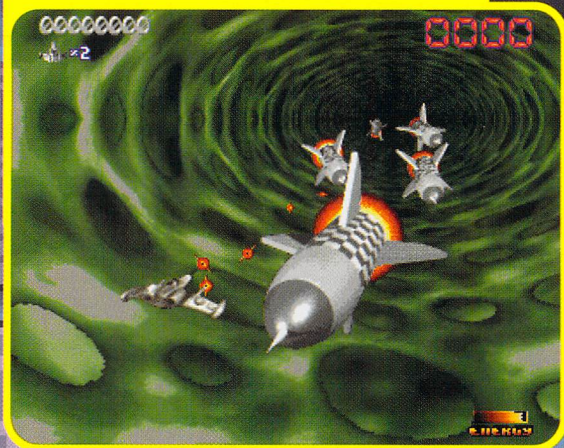

Never before have you seen so many objects moving so quickly and so smoothly in so many colours. Never before have you seen such a stunning array of alien ships. Never before have you been delivered with so many levels of blasting action.

And all this is before we even mention the stunning Tunnel sections which make you forget any other into the screen game you may ever have had the misfortune to 'play'.

Super Stardust - they said it couldn't be done... ...so Team17 went and did it!

Available for: Amiga 1200 and CD32 - Late 1994

ENTER

ALL TERRAIN RACER

Get you motor running, get off of the highway! Take to the hills, or any one of the other wild, wacky and challenging terrains in Team 17's awesome new driving game. The coding skills that brought you the incredible gameplay of Qwak and the graphical excellence of Ultimate Body Blows now combine to bring you ATR. Jamie Woodhouse has packed ATR with playability, honing the handling until it feels superb. And Danny Burke has surpassed himself, giving the game a visual appeal that is simply awesome.

Now you can take a choice of futuristic buggies on a race against time, your mates (in simultaneous two-player mode) and several computer opponents across a dazzling array of terrific terrains. Collect power ups and cash on the way to instantly improve the power and handling of your car, or spend the cash in the shops to tune up your vehicle. Then it's back to the race track for more race and chase action.

ULTIMATE BODY BLOWS

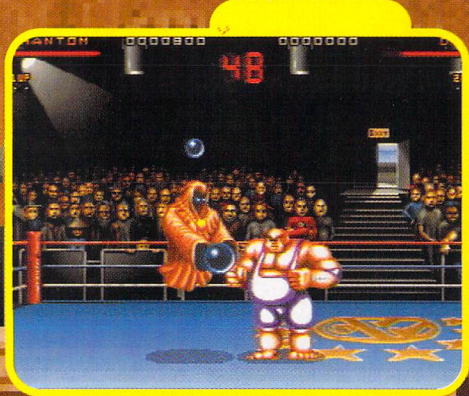

A beat 'em up, is a beat 'em up... but Ultimate Body Blows is one hell of a beat 'em up!

The action takes place on one of 7 superbly rendered backgrounds. There are over 20 characters for the player to choose to be, or to fight, ranging from 'normal' human opponents through ninjas and fat-bloke wrestlers to superhuman beings with the powers of fire, or ice at their disposal. And if you are talented enough to conquer the entire range of standard opponents you will be offered the chance to battle the mighty T-17. This robotic opponent will present the toughest opposition you have ever faced.

Ultimate Blows also has tournament and tag team modes and numerous other options, like turbo mode which makes this already action-packed game move even swifter, and player vs player which will allow both opponents to choose the same character for an extremely evenly matched battle.

Available for:
PC and CD-ROM Late 1994

SUPERFROG

Our froggie hero gains nothing on CD, but hey! It was a great game anyway. And as you would expect, disk swaps are a thing of the olden (floppy using) days.

Superfrog CD32 also has a rolling demo of Super Stardust, and a playable demo of Arcade Pool on the disk. And all this for a bargain busting budget price... you'd be a fool to miss it!

CD32

POOL

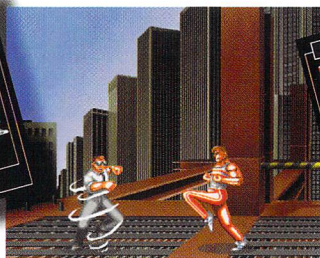

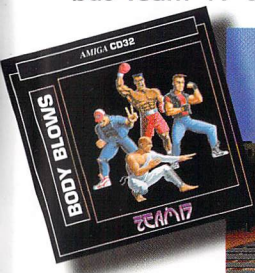

Arcade Pool... the most addictive game on floppy, is just as addictive on CD, and it boasts 'pubmosphere' and 'pool-hall' ambience soundtracks, some excellent 'bluesey' background music and one helluva cool intro animation.

Save your scores to hard drive (PC) or Floppy (Amiga CD32/SX1 and CD1200), so you can still show your friends what a star you are at Speed Pool.

CD-ROM

Team 17's support for the Amiga CD32 and CD1200 has been second to none. This year PC CD_ROM joins our line up. CD is the format of the future but Team 17 are bringing you great games on CD today...

ULTIMATE BODY BLOWS

The benefits of quicker loading are not to be overlooked on this massive beat 'em up. With over 20 fighting character you'll be glad of CDs speedy load times and instant access. And the addition of CD-audio soundtracks just makes this incredible beat 'em up even better.

Ultimate Body Blows CD - the really Ultimate version!

SUPER STARDUST

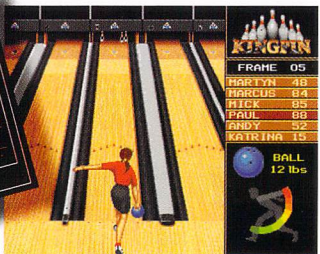

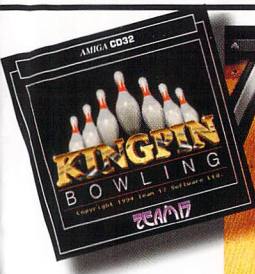

Super Stardust is a BIG game. Lots of action, lots of colours, lots of levels, lots of ships, lots of aliens. And the odd disk swap (not too many, we assure you)! But you can have all the fun of the worlds best shoot 'em up, with absolutely no disk swaps at all... ever! plus CD audio (and it's good tunes too!) and a ray traced intro animation. How?

Buy Stardust CD32, that's how!

COMING SOON

A sneak preview at what Team 17 will be bringing you next year!

King of Thieves

In a land far away (or very near, we forget which) a time very long ago there were smelly peasants and cruel, merciless overlords. The cruel, merciless overlords (and some fair and just ones too) spent most of their time scheming, and taxing the smelly peasants. You get the idea.

King of Thieves gives you the opportunity to be one of these smelly overlords. Plot, tax, scheme, do battle with aggrieved magicians and even fight dragons. Cool!

King of Thieves combines stunning arcade sections with map-conquering strategy sections to bring you a completely new game sensation.

3D Off Road

Technical excellence, that is the target Mat and Dan Cook have set themselves with 3D Off Road, or 3DOR. And technical excellence is what they are achieving with this stunning 3D driving game. Mat's own 3D routines are shifting huge numbers of polygons around every second. And they are texture mapping and gouraud shading them all too. But what does all this tedious techno wibble mean for you? It means a faster, more detailed and more accurate racing game... and that has to be a good thing.

3DOR... fast moving, good looking, playable... the way only Team 17 can.

Witchwood

Do you like the idea of playing role playing/strategy games but can't be bothered walking round smelly dungeons all the time, consorting with trolls and slime monsters? If so, then Witchwood is the game for you.

Team 17 are ditching the greys and the dark browns. We're cracking out the bright greens, the yellows and the reds to bring you a nice cuddly role playing/strategy game.

That's not to say it's an easy RPG. No way!

Witchwood has a huge game world and a fiendish plot to keep you enchanted for months.
